tives in the county.

BETZVILLE TALES

Grandma Pillbeck and the Tin Clock

By Ellis Parker Butler
Author of "Pigs is Pigs" Etc.
ILLUSTRATED BY PETER NEWELL

She Set the Hands at Six o'Clock, and Stared at Them for Ten Minutes.

In the death of Grandma Susan Pillbeck, which took place unexpectedly last Thursday, Betzville lost one of her most sober-minded female citizens, and by order of the city council a crape streamer was tied to the Pilbeck box in the Betzville post office.
As there has been very little doing in black goods in Betzville lately the Bankrupt Store next the post office supplied the crape at half-price. The Bankrupt Store is one of Betzville's oldest and most enterprising mercantile concerns, and is conducting a mourning sale all this week, in memory of Grandma Pillbeck, who used to trade there. Anyone expecting to mourn in the near future should take advantage of this sale.
When interviewed as to the cause of Grandma Pillbeck's sudden demise, Orlando Pillbeck, her son, informed our reporter that she was simply worn to a frazzle. As he remarks in the graceful obituary poem, published on another page, right under Uncle Ashdod Clute's hog and cattle sale advertisement:

"Grandma Pillbeck has gone and went Where the angels brightly dazle, Getting to bed her strength it spent And wore her to a frazzle."
In this connection we wish to remark that Ephron Quat, proprietor of the Betzville Furniture Emporium, says that if Orlando had opened up a little and had bought grandma one of the patent spring beds he is now showing, she would have lasted much longer, these beds being bouncy, and more resilient than the slat bed on which Grandma Pillbeck frazzled away to eternity.

It seems that some years ago Grandma Pillbeck read in a paper that over-sleeping in the morning could be easily avoided, and as she was a regular oversleeper, she took the article to heart. It said that it was only necessary to get a clock, and before retiring, set the hands to point to the desired rising time, and stare at them long and well, and when the hands reached that position in the morning the sleeper would unfailingly awaken.
So Grandma Pillbeck got a tin clock for 84 cents and tried it. She set the hands at six o'clock, and stared at them for ten minutes, and then set the clock at the proper time and went to bed, and, sure enough, at exactly six o'clock the next morning she awakened. She was delighted, and did it again the next night, and the next morning she again awakened at six o'clock precisely. After that she kept it up regularly, and it never failed. For about three years she gazed at six o'clock every night, and awakened at six o'clock every morning, and by that time she had acquired the habit of rising whenever the hands of the clock pointed to six.
She found that she had looked at the clock so often that it was no longer necessary to look at it before going to bed—whenever the hands pointed to six she had to jump out of bed.

About five weeks ago, while Grandma Pillbeck was sleeping peacefully in the middle of the night, she suddenly jumped out of bed as if impelled by an irresistible impulse, or, as she expressed it, "as if some one had kicked me out," and when she lighted her lamp she saw that the clock was pointing to six o'clock.
Something had gone wrong with the works of the tin clock, as things are apt to go wrong with the innards of those 84-cent clocks, and the clock was running too fast, but as long as she was up she thought she might as well stay up, so she did. But in three hours the hands of the clock had run around to six again, and Grandma

Pillbeck felt herself irresistibly impelled to get into bed again, or, as she expressed it, "as if some one had kicked me into bed."

As she lay there, thinking what would be the best thing to do, she fell into a doze, and she must have slept three hours, for, the first thing she knew she was irresistibly impelled out of bed again. The hands of the clock were pointing to six!

That afternoon Orlando Pillbeck, her son, took the tin clock and a screwdriver and set to work to correct the clock, and Grandma Pillbeck had a long rest out of bed, for Orlando found he could not get all the parts back into the tin clock that he had taken out of it, but about sundown he gave it up, and put all the parts he could back into the clock. He had to leave out the little finger that keeps the clock from running away with itself. But by leaving the clock unwound, and setting the hands personally when she wanted to go to bed, and having Orlando set them at six when it was time for her to get up, she did very well, until Orlando happened to go away for a week of fishing. That week grandma slept a whole week, and when Orlando returned and set the clock she was so weak from lack of food that she wobbled. So Orlando decided to get a new tin clock, and when the peddler came around he traded in the old one and 75 cents for a new one.

All would have been well, but it seems that Grandma Pillbeck had become attuned to the old clock—as you might say—and did not respond to the new one, and the peddler must have given the old clock to his children to play with when he got home.
His children must have agent their days winding the old tin clock and allowing it to run down at the rate of 24 hours a minute. They were probably early risers, those children, and went to bed late, and played with the old tin clock industriously, for from six a. m. until nine p. m. Grandma Pillbeck responded to the hands of the clock. Every few seconds she was irresistibly impelled into bed, and every few seconds she was irresistibly impelled out again, as the hands of the clock marked six. It was pitiful to see the sober-faced old lady hounding into bed and out of it.
She would stand with a scared expression, and suddenly she would twitch, and into bed she would go, and immediately she would twitch, and out she would come. She wore off a great deal of flesh on the slats of the bed, but the clock made faster and faster time, and at last she only had time to hit the floor before she went back and hit the slats.

Orlando tried to find where the peddler lived, so he could take the clock away from him, but no one knew, and Grandma Pillbeck bounced beyond the troubles of this world at eight o'clock last Thursday morning.

An important resolution was passed Wednes-an event the Templars have been striving to consummate for years.

WHERE SURGERY FAILS CUTTING WON'T REMOVE THE CAUSE OF PILES

Piles mean more than merely the pain of the stubborn little tumors. There is a condition inside that must be dealt with. Cutting is usually followed with later and worse attacks. A permanent cure can only be made by bettering the condition of the parts and getting a free circulation of the blood.

Hem-Roid cures all kinds of piles by internal action right on the cause. Sold by J.

The Germantown correspondent of The Bracken Chronicle says: "Castings for the new oil wells on the George Galbraith farm are now on the ground and as soon as the remainder of the machinery arrives, which has been shipped several weeks, operations will be begun at once on three wells. Those in charge of the oil digging claim that the prospects are bright for discovering coal in that vicinity."

IN A FEW WEEKS

The youngsters will go back to their respective Colleges. In anticipation of their wanting to fit themselves out in Fall Suits we have arranged to receive our best goods during this month. In fact, a good many are already in stock.

Among them quite a line of the celebrated Hirsch-Wickwire productions. Our patrons that wear them fully appreciate them.

The young ladies that go back to their collegiate institutes will doubtless want a nice Trunk, Suit Case or Traveling Bag. Our stock in these lines are the largest and best we have ever carried.

At the price we are selling our best Spring and Summer Suits we are surprised we have any left at all; but we still have a few left. If you find your size you buy the cheapest suit of clothes that was ever sold in Maysville.

We still have a few of the Blue Serge Suits at $14.50, fully worth $20; some of them heavy enough to wear late in the fall.

We are well supplied with Tobacco Pants and Aprons. Send in your orders for them.

Be sure and get tickets on the Victrola when you make your purchases or pay your accounts.

NOT SO BAD AS FIRST REPORTED

In the accident which befell our highly esteemed and worthy fellow citizen, J. Banks Durrett, Cashier of Mitchell, Finch & Co.'s Bank, near Blainell Springs yesterday morning, while en route in an automobile to the Lexington Fair, THE LEDGER is glad to inform his many friends that he is not seriously injured, as first reports had him.

In passing another machine Mr. Durrett was standing up in the Kirk auto waving his hand to parties in the other motor car. His own car gave a sudden lurch, and losing his balance, he was thrown out of the car, sustaining a severe scalp wound and being otherwise bruised in the fall. Fortunately Dr. A. O. Taylor was an occupant of the other car and he gave prompt and efficient medical attention. Later Dr. Samuel and Mr. A. G. Sulser were dispatched to the scene and brought the injured man to this city. He was placed in Wilson Hospital and Dr. J. T. Ransohoff of Cincinnati was summoned to his bedside.

After a thorough examination this eminent surgeon gave assurance that Mr. Durrett's injuries were superficial in character and not at all dangerous.

The nurse at the Hospital informs THE LEDGER this morning that he had a restful night and was getting along nicely.

Yesterday afternoon in Squire J. O. Pickrell's Court Walter Stockton of Hord's Hill was fined and costed $32.40 for a Saturday night's house party and jamboree.

Miss Gordon's Training School will open Thursday, September 1st. For further information see the Advisory Board or address the Principal, 180 Maxwell street, Lexington, Ky.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR CONGRESS.

B. BENNETT of Greenup county.

That the work which has just been done will aid the Republican party in a campaign which will soon open is to state the situation mildly. Almost every important measure which was on the party programme on the first Monday of December, 1909, was on the book by the last Saturday in June. The roll call of the measures enacted the last few months will make the of the Republican campaign orator this easy and pleasant. Railway legislation, good for the last of the territories, a postal savings bank, land withdrawal in the interest of National conservation, publicity of campaign contributions, creating a bureau of mines, providing funds for pushing reclamation, extending the activities of the Tariff Board, and a commission to formulate plans for the more economical administration of the Federal Government, are among the acts of large consequence which were passed in the session which has just closed. Taken in connection with the Tariff act, which was passed in the extra session, the record of the Sixty-first Congress thus far makes a story which the party's spellbinders will find to be very effective on the stump. The tone of hopefulness which the Democratic newspapers and politicians had a month or two ago is dropped. No Democrat now is predicting victory for his party in November. The rally which was made in the last ten or twelve days of the session was notable for its decisiveness. The party has had good leadership in Senate, House and White House. All the Republican chieftains have pulled together with courage and intelligence. Once more the party is aggressive, confident and enthusiastic. The dubious outlook which industry saw a few weeks ago, and which registered itself on the Exchanges, has been banished. The prospect is that 1910 will be a great year for the Republican party and for the country.

Free Sample Aids Old Men

The sudden change from years of activity of both body and mind to the quiet of later years causes the human system to undergo many changes, chief of which is in the digestive organs.

It becomes harder and harder to get the bowels to move promptly and regularly and in consequence many elderly men suffer not only from the basic trouble, constipation, but from indigestion, headache, belching, sour stomach, drowsiness, poor eating and similar annoyances. It is first of all necessary to keep the bowels open and then to tone the digestive muscles so as to get them to again do their work naturally. A violent cathartic or purgative is not only unnecessary but harmful, and something mild will do the work just as well.

After you have got through experimenting with salts and pills and waters of various kinds, and have become convinced that they do only temporary good at best, then try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a mild, gentle, pleasant-tasting laxative tonic that is especially adapted to the requirements of old people, women and children, and yet is effective enough for anybody. Your druggist, who has handled it successfully for a quarter of a century, will sell you a bottle for fifty cents or one dollar, but if you want to make a test of it before spending any money send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and he will gladly send you a sample bottle free of charge.

This remedy is rapidly displacing all other forms of medication for the cure of stomach, liver and bowel trouble, and families like Mr. O. F. Wisner's of Syracuse, Ill., and Mrs. Carrie Culler's of 325 N. Notre Dame street, South Bend, Ind., are now never without it in the house. They have tested it and know its grand value to every member of the family.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire or for family porting to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail.

For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 507 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R. F. D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

MATRIMONIAL MALCONTENTS

The Mason Circuit Court convenes in September. The docket already contains twenty-five equity cases, and of that number thirteen are divorce suits. It is a sad commentary on affairs matrimonial, and a condition greatly to be deplored. That more restrictive laws granting the privilege of entering into marriage compacts are essential to the betterment and elevation of the sacred state of matrimony, is apparent to the more thoughtful. The sooner some action is taken in a legislative way by which present conditions can be purified, the better it will be for all as a people and as a Nation.
